Yanks, French In 3-Mi. Gain

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—American and French troops advancing up to three miles today struck into the first two Vosges mountain passes guarding the Rhine, but all along the western front the Allies battled desperate German resistance and chill rains, and had settled into the nearest thing to positional warfare since Normandy.

WESTERN FRONT—Third Army forces have repulsed German counter attacks in the area of Gravelotte, west of Metz, while in the foothills of the Vosges the Seventh Army liberated the village of St. Gorgon. Other Allied drives are indicated by arrows.

The Germans lost 113 tanks—almost the equivalent of an armored division—in two days of counter attacks on the Third Army front, and threw artillery shells and rockets in vain efforts to halt Allied pushes while they strengthened defenses.

Lt. Gen. Patch's French and American battle team fought up the snow-powdered slopes into the entrances to two Vosges passes northeast of Epinal and Lunéville.

Four miles east of Remiremont, 50 miles south of Nancy, American patrols pushed through a forest in the St. Anne sector. Farther north the American First Army attacked against Hürtgen deep in the Siegfried barrier to Cologne, and tore through eight fortifications of Nazi pillboxes at Prüm on the way toward Coblenz.

In Holland British infantry and paratroops of two American divisions stopped German counterattacks against the vital Waal bridge at Nijmegen. Fighting grew fiercer in the sharp Allied wedge across the German border into the Reichswald forest.

A frontline correspondent said the Germans were digging in frantically along the Maas (Meuse) river, hoping to prolong the war through another winter. But the British Second Army steadily was building up strength in its 50-mile long corridor into the Netherlands.

Canadian troops northeast of Antwerp hit westward against sizable German pockets, and Polish soldiers deepened their bridgehead across the Antwerp Canal west of Turnhout, capturing Mergel in a two-mile advance.

The German colonel commanding at Calais was said to have declared:

"I have received orders from my Fuehrer to fight to the last man, and that is what I intend to do."

Also on the coast, Cape Gris Nez had fallen to Canadian assault and its cross-channel batteries that had made life touch-and-go in Dover and Folkestone for four hard years were silenced at last.

German troops that pushed to the south bank of the Dutch Rhine opposite Arnhem were shoved back across the river last night and destroyed the north-

Dover Gaily Rejoices: 4 Years of Shelling Ends

By LEWIS HAWKINS

DOVER, England, Sept. 30 (AP)—Residents of Dover sang, shouted and danced through the streets of their battered city today after they were told officially their ordeal by gunfire was ended. It was just over four years ago that the first German shell crashed across the narrow Dover strait.

Flags were flown today from the windows of nearly all the houses. Men working on the hundreds of shell-damaged houses paused long enough to whoop out a few cheers.

It is expected thanksgiving services will be held on the beaches Sunday with the Archbishop of Canterbury presiding.

Shortly after 10 a. m. loud speakers in the town gave this message:

"The mayor has received official information that all the long range guns on the other side of the channel have now been captured."

The message was also broadcast in the caves, where many people have been sheltering the last month during the fierce bombardment of this little capital of the so-called "Hellfire Corner."

3 New Palau Isles Captured

Three new Palau islets were taken in American hands today after swiftly exploited landings designed to hasten the use of that western aerial dagger aimed at the Philippines.

5th Repels Nazi Attacks

ROME, Sept. 30 (INS)—Fierce Nazi counter-thrusts in the mountains of northern Italy were beaten back today by the Allied Fifth Army in bitter fighting under torrential downpours of rain.

Nazi Field Marshal Kesselring concentrated his counterattacks against strategic Monte Battaglia.

The forces commanded by Lt. Gen. Clark repelled the repeated enemy blows in stiff slugfests.

British troops of the Fifth Army pushed forward in the mire of mud to score an important advance which resulted in capture of strategic Monte Fusio, key feature on the Florence-Florence road.

Move to Poison Hitler Fails

LONDON, Sept. 30 (INS)—The Madrid correspondent of the London Daily Mail declared today that another attempt was made against the life of Adolf Hitler last month—with poison.

Quoting "a distinguished German just arrived in Madrid" the Daily Mail reporter said the informant gave as his source of information "the chief of the Gestapo at Berchtesgaden."

While studying astrology at the summer house at his Berchtesgaden hide-out, in company with his private astrologer, Hitler was just going to drink his customary cup of black coffee when suddenly the astrologer warned the Fuehrer not to drink as the beverage was poisoned, the story went.

Adm. Nimitz announced yesterday the first U. S. Marines had pushed northward from embattled Peleliu to secure nearby Ngesebus islet and its 4800-foot fighter strip, Kongaru and a third unnamed sand bar.

This brought to nine the American-held islands in the southern Palau, where the Japanese death toll has risen to 9772.

Tokyo radio reported "many residents" had begun to leave Manila, as a result of recent carrier plane raids, and a "committee on evacuation is giving every possible aid."

Japanese guns, however, drew closer to major American air bases in China, and observers reported Chungking was in one of its gloomiest moods with free prediction that the continental campaign had lengthened the war by months.

Nipponese columns were only 31 miles from Kweilin, key provincial capital of Kwangsi province, and have reached Tanchuk, with the Japanese already claiming complete occupation of it and Paoching, 65 miles west of Hengyang.

Phillips Keeps Post As Envoy to India

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)

—William Phillips, after a conference with President Roosevelt today, told newsmen he would remain in this country for some time and that his position of personal representative of the President to India, with the rank of ambassador, will remain unchanged.

It was the first time Phillips had seen Mr. Roosevelt since his return from India and since the published reports of a controversy stemming from expositions on the Indian political situation attributed to Phillips. The latter plans to leave immediately for a rest at his home in Massachusetts.

Quit, Save Self, Hungary Told

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (AP)—Russia opened up today with a strong propaganda campaign urging Hungary to surrender as Red Army troops tightened a pincers offensive against Hitler's last big Balkan satellite.

Leaflets dropped over the Hungarian lines encouraged enemy troops to capitulate. The leaflets declared the Romanians were well received when they threw down their arms.

Broadcasts informed the Hungarian people it was not too late to desert Hitler and save themselves.

The Russian offensive against Hungary has crunched a 90-mile stretch of frontier fortifications along the Czech-Polish border decimating the Ruthenian highlands and is sweeping west through northern Transylvania.

Gen. Petrov's combined Russian-Czechoslovak forces, driving a wedge into every important Balkan pass, extended their push on pre-war Czechoslovakia's border to 160 miles.

Marshal Malinowski scored a major success in the eastern Carpathians by capturing the Transylvanian city of Targu-Mures and crossing the Mures river line 50 miles east of Cluj, Hungarian-annexed Transylvania capital.

Operations of Malinowski's forces on the Hungarian plain from western Romania were not mentioned officially here.

(A Bucharest broadcast said the Russians had broken into Giudea, strategic rail city controlling one of the main Nazi escape routes out of Transylvania. It is only six miles from the pre-war Hungarian frontier.)

Berlin reports implied that Red army troops temporarily had smashed into Szeged, Hungary's second city.)

RAF Mosquitos bombed Karlsruhe last night in what the air ministry said was a well concentrated attack.

A communiqué said all the bombers returned from Karlsruhe. Other planes laid mines in enemy waters.

Robots Kill 6 More in Britain

Nelson Resigns, Krug Tops WPB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Donald M. Nelson as chairman of the War Production Board and said he was counting on Nelson remaining in the government "in a high post of major importance."

The President named Julius A. Krug as Nelson's successor, but did not immediately disclose the post he had in mind for Nelson. Krug has been acting WPB chairman.

White House Secretary Early told reporters Nelson had sent in his letter of resignation yesterday to take effect immediately.

Nelson said he and Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley had carried out the first phase of the work assigned to them in China by the President and that he had returned to make certain essential arrangements for completing his part of the mission.

The main purpose of his letter, Nelson said, was to tender his resignation. He added he had contemplated this action since war production had successfully met its crucial task in the invasion of Europe.

He had delayed, Nelson said, only until he could chart the course of WPB in the reconversion program.

Nelson said today the policies, plans and methods of war production are well established, and during his absence Krug "administered the board very successfully" and is quite capable of completing development of plans for reconversion.

The record of War Production, Nelson wrote Mr. Roosevelt, shows what can be done in combining efforts of labor, management and government.

In accepting the resignation, the President said the world was aware of the great part American production has played in the war. He praised Nelson's work and said he could not agree with him that "you leave Washington."

The war in Europe is unfinished, Mr. Roosevelt said, and the country faces postwar problems of greatest complexity and needs the ability of men like Nelson, former Sears Roebuck vice-president.

Mystery Witness Aids Jackie Cooper

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 30 (INS)—"Nothing took place out of the ordinary" in the hotel suite where Jackie Cooper and two other defendants allegedly contributed to the delinquency of two minor South Bend girls, defense witness testified today. The identity of the witness, a fellow Navy V-12 trainee of the former film star at Notre Dame University, was withheld. His presence in the suite the night of July 22 had not been previously disclosed.

The party, the prosecution alleges, was climaxed by the seduction of one of the girls by George Bender, 21, of Sheffield, Ill., also a trainee and a defendant.

A fourth defendant is Ollie Lowery, a waiter charged with serving drinks to the minor girls.

He said he and another unidentified trainee and Miss Pauline Frederick, 19, a defendant, met the 15 and 16-year-old girls on the street, and that he and his companion invited them to go on a party.

They accepted, he said, and they later met Cooper and Bender in the hotel taproom, where the girls had had "a few drinks."

They all went to the suite previously engaged by Cooper.

Cooper had some Scotch whiskey, he testified, and he saw Cooper and Bender "take some drinks" but none of the girls drank anything.

"I was with the 16-year-old girl," he testified, "and she didn't seem to be having a very good time."

So, he said, he took her to the street and put her on a bus for home.

Cooper was to resume his testimony today. Previously the 15-year-old girl, three Navy trainees, and Zasu Pitts, stage and screen star, had testified.

Miss Pitts was a character witness for Cooper.

The 16-year-old girl said she was not molested at the party.

The 15-year-old girl, whose appearance in court was ordered after her physician had declared her physically unable to attend the session, told the court she had spent the night of July 22 in hotel rooms with Cooper and four others while "pretty intoxicated," according to an Associated Press dispatch.

"I had a scotch-and-soda, a scotch-and-ginger ale, and I don't know what else," the girl said.

The girl related how she and her friend had met Miss Frederick on a South Bend street at 8 p. m. July 22 and had joined the group after being invited to a party by Miss Frederick.

The girl said the group had paired off, she with Bender, Miss Frederick with Cooper and the 16-year-old girl with the sailor named Bill. She said she and Bender went to another room not connected with the first room. In answer to a direct question by Montgomery, she said she and Bender were intimate there.

The 16-year-old girl gave similar testimony concerning events up to the time the three couples allegedly separated and went to different rooms. She said she was not molested by her partner. She said that once she opened a connecting door into another room and saw Miss Frederick nude.

Cooper took the stand and described circumstances leading up to the party. He said he and three other V-12 trainees planned a party for a visiting friend, to which it had not been indicated that girls would be invited.

He said he had rented three bedrooms after trying to rent a bedroom and a sitting room at the hotel. He said the friend, a former Notre Dame V-12 trainee, had intended to stay overnight but never showed up for the party.

Hail Blood Test Plan

Leading Boston medical authorities today hailed the suggestion of Dr. Everett physician that all babies in the state be blood-typed at the age of six months.

The Everett doctor's recommendation followed discovery of the plight of Mrs. Edmund Merchant of Plymouth st., Everett, mother of a week-old baby and in serious need of one of the world's rarest blood types. She is at Hidden Memorial Hospital.

Hospital authorities, describing her condition as only fair, said she is in immediate want of a transfusion of type 3RH negative blood. Hundreds of donors were tested in vain.

While search for this blood type continued today without success, Dr. Abraham Ginsberg of the hospital staff advanced his suggestion to blood-type babies as soon after birth as their blood is stabilized, to avoid futile searches in the future.

Dr. William Damashack, termed by Red Cross officials the leading blood authority in New England, said Dr. Ginsberg's idea was perfectly feasible.

Dr. Fritz Haase, a director of Massachusetts General Hospital, said he had never heard of the idea before, but declared it was absolutely reasonable.

Specialists explained that the urgency of Mrs. Merchant's case, and others like it, is that only a small percentage of persons have type 3RH negative blood, and not as in 1000 is likely to know what type of blood he has.

Blood donor center officials admitted donors are no longer told a what category their blood is.

Survivor of Triple Auto Date Tragedy to Be Bride

Miss Grace E. Saunders, 18, of Newtowne Court, Cambridge, sole survivor of a tragic double-date in Lexington last winter in which her three companions froze to death, today filed wedding intentions in Cambridge City Hall.

The prospective bridegroom is Albert W. Pitrone, 25, of Howard st., Roxbury, a former Cambridge resident and a factory worker.

Miss Saunders, fully recovered from her ordeal, is employed in a Cambridge candy factory. She said the ceremony would be performed Oct. 6 at 7 p. m. in Broadway Baptist Church, Cambridge, by Rev. Ralph F. Palmer.

Miss Saunders' companions, Ruth Place, 16 and two brothers, John and James Keefe, were frozen while the quartet sat in a parked car last January. They remained in the car for several days. Miss Saunders recovered consciousness enough to make her way home.

MRS. YVONNE HAMEL
Maniac Sought as Her Slayer

All Clues Fail in Widow Slaying

LAWRENCE, Sept. 30 — With both robbery and attack ruled out as motives for the fiendish slaying of Mrs. Yvonne Hamel, 45-year-old widowed war worker, detectives today questioned a dozen persons but said so far they were without clues in the murder investigation.

Dr. Alan R. Moritz, state pathologist, and Medical Examiner Nicholas J. Scarito said an autopsy disclosed the woman died of a skull fracture and there had been no attack.

Robbery had been discarded as a police theory when the widow's $19.60 pay envelope was found intact in her pocketbook.

Her unconscious form was found in the rear of a six-tenement house in Hancock st. near her home. She died at Lawrence General Hospital six hours later.

Dewey Plans Drive In Midwest and N. E.

By LEO W. O'BRIEN

ALBANY, Sept. 30 (INS)—Gov. Dewey, abandoning plans for a week-end rest at his Pawling farm, waded through accumulated state business today and made arrangements for a Monday birthday party for his older boy, Thomas E. Dewey, Jr., who will be 12 on Oct. 2.

The Republican nominee has worked out with National Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., a tentative campaign itinerary for October and the first week in November, but details are subject to change and will not be announced for several days.

It is known Dewey will swing into the Midwest soon after his Oct. 6 speech at Charleston, W. Va., and the campaign will be devoted to a drive for New York's 47 electoral votes.

The GOP candidate, in a statement on National Newspaper Week, Oct. 1 to 8, sharply criticized the Roosevelt Administration for the volume of government releases sent to newspapers during the past year.

ing the paper slumbers.

In one week, he said, the output of such releases to a single newspaper weighed 16 1/2 pounds. If all of them were printed, he added, it would have taken the entire space of a large metropolitan daily for five days.

"I have every confidence," he continued, "that our free press will continue to resist government domination of its contents, and such examples will be regarded as sheer waste and extravagance."

Gov. Dewey said suppression of a free press by dictators in Europe is a lesson "not without some application to our own country as has been indicated by some of the tendency of the government in power, against which most editors and publishers have been watchful."

Revelation that armed vessels under command of the Russian navy are based at and operated out of an American port was made by Rep. Warren C. Magnuson (D.) of Washington.

Congressman Magnuson, although ranking Pacific Coast member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said he learned only recently of Russian operations out of the American port secretly conducted for more than 15 months.

"Direct inquiry," he said, "to Secretary of the Navy Forrestal confirmed information reaching me that the Soviet base is being operated by the Russian government under terms of the lend-lease agreement."

Port facilities, he said, are under lease from an American company. Payment is made by an American agency directly to this firm, although the Russians have full use of the harbor as an operational base under terms of lend-lease, he explained.

The Russian base, acquired more than 15 months ago, makes available to Soviet vessels a harbor several miles long and nearly a mile wide.

In addition to a pier sufficient for a vessel to discharge all cargoes simultaneously, facilities of the American company include warehouses, oil storage tanks and living quarters for an undetermined number of men.

Vessels may also anchor in the light on one shore. Aids to navigation include a previously established lighthouse, a recently established radio beacon and other improvements made by this government before turning the base over to the Russians.

Russian merchantmen, all under command of the Soviet navy, have been transshipping cargoes and using the base as a coaling station, but no estimate of the shore-side force quartered at the base could be obtained.

The American firm is being paid $400 a month for use by the Russians of the company's facilities.

Smith, 70, was admitted to St. Vincent's Hospital Aug. 10, suffering from heat exhaustion, but he has not been in good health since his wife's death several months ago.

Twins Who Won't Part Killed in War

CANTON, Ill., Sept. 30 (AP)—The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Vaughn, Irapa, who refused to be separated when only one of them was drafted in 1941, were killed in action in France Sept. 11, their parents have been notified by the War Department.

The youths, Sgt. Archie Willis Vaughn and PFC Gus Wilson Vaughn, would have observed their 26th anniversaries Sept. 17. Four other brothers and a brother-in-law are in service.

When Ott was drafted late in 1941, Archie, from whom he never had been separated, enlisted.

Waiting Return of Soldier Hubby, Mother of 2 Learns He's Dead

By EDWARD M. MARTIN

"I'll be seeing you Christmas, honey. Regards to all and hugs and kisses, from husband and daddy."

This was just what Mrs. Helen O'Leary was waiting for. Her husband, father of her children, was coming home. She knew it was true because he said so in a letter she just received.

Pvt. Joseph E. O'Leary, 25, a hero of the D-Day invasion of Normandy, was coming home.

In her modest Norfolk st., Cambridge home, Mrs. O'Leary had explained the glad tidings to her two little daughters, Patricia Frances, 4, and Gemma, 3. Theirs was to be a most happy Christmas.

Then the doorbell rang. A messenger handed the young wife and mother a two-star-studded telegram from the adjutant-general's office in Washington. Through eyes that refused to believe, she read: "Killed in action on 30 August, in France, Pvt. Joseph E. O'Leary."

"It just can't be so—I can't make myself believe it," the young mother sobbed to the writer as her two little ones knelt at her side. "We were so happy—he loved us dearly."

"A few days before he left for overseas in January, we were all so happy. We waited to see him leave when his 10-day furlough was up."

Mrs. O'Leary read and re-read the letter her young husband had written two days before he was killed in action.

"Hi, Helen Dearest:

"I can hardly wait to hold you in my arms again, Helen. This war can't be over any too soon for me."

"How are our precious children, Pat and Gem? Excellent. I hope. I am in the best of health."

"Everything is quiet and peaceful here. The only noise we hear is that of the French kids playing games."

"So far I haven't received any mail. To look at the picture of Pat, Gem and you, dear, gives me the highest degree of pleasure here."

"I'll be seeing you Christmas, honey. Regards to all. Love and hugs and kisses, from Husband and Daddy."

Pvt. O'Leary, a native of Cambridge, was graduated from Wellington Grammar School and attended King Technical School. Before being called to the colors, he conducted an oil and ice business in Cambridge.

Clare Luce Hits F. D. for Secrecy

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30 (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R.) of Connecticut said today "the American people should have been led into the war—not lied into it."

"The facts leading up to Pearl Harbor and our almost certain involvement were presented to Congress or the American people," she said at a press conference after her campaign speech for Gov. Dewey last night.

"Roosevelt must sometime explain why he jumped Adam Kimmel over the heads of 42 other officers," she said. "I believe it would be for one of two reasons—political favoritism, or that Kimmel agreed to a proposition the senior officers would not have agreed to."

Mrs. Luce described Dewey as "the inevitable man" who "will lead the way to a people's peace."

(Copyright, by Los Angeles Examiner and International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30 (INS)—The last few days have been hectic in the life of Susan Hayward who parted from her bridegroom Jess Barker the night of the now famous Turhan Bey-Sue Crane bout. Not that Susie or Jess had anything to do with the fight. They had their own private troubles.

Well, Susan is to become a mother next April and she and young Barker have decided to have another try at matrimony.

"We dine together to talk things over," said Susie, "and we love each other so we have decided to give our marriage another chance and see if we cannot work out our troubles. I suppose much of our unhappiness was due to our living in our small apartment."

Young Barker has just signed a contract for Lana Turner's current picture. The fact that he had no job all during their marriage may have had something to do with their matrimonial troubles.

Polish Leader Ousted; Bor In

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski was ousted today as commander-in-chief of Poland's underground army. Gen. Tadeusz (Bor) Komorowski, until recently known only as "Gen. Bor," regarded in London quarters as acceptable to Moscow.

Yielding to persuasion of peasant-born Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and pressure of the British government, President Wladyslaw Backiewicz signed the decree dismissing his long-time friend as Poland's military leader. The country's military leadership was transferred to the hero of the Warsaw uprising and commander of Poland's underground army, Gen. Tadeusz (Bor) Komorowski, until recently known only as "Gen. Bor," regarded in London quarters as acceptable to Moscow.

Broken Home Sets Tragedy

COSHOCKTON, O., Sept. 30 (AP)—A young father who Prosecutor Russel E. Lyons said admitted dropping two of his four small sons into Mohican river rather than see them live without a home, sat silently in a cell reading a Bible today.

One of the boys drowned, the other crawled out to safety. The other two, Lyons said, were left under a tree half a mile away with only a blanket to protect them from a cold rain.

Lyons said he would file a murder charge today against the father, 31-year-old Warren Patterson, and Judge J. C. Daugherty summoned a special grand jury to meet Monday.

The prosecutor traced the tragedy to a broken home. Patterson related, Lyons said, that he and his wife separated two months ago and he assumed custody of their sons three weeks later. Mrs. Patterson was arrested at Ashland, the couple's home, on a charge of abandonment and placed in jail there.

Lyons said Patterson told him this story in a signed statement:

After assuming custody of the sons, he found it difficult to care for them and maintain his job as machinist at Ashland. He asked the Ashland Probate Court to place them in a home, but the request was denied.

Patterson became frantic because he could not provide a home for his boys. He put them in his automobile and drove to Coshocton.

About midnight, he came to the bridge crossing the small Mohican river and stopped the car. He told the children to sleep.

Finally he got out, took Larry, 1½, and Raymond, 7, to the railing of the bridge, carrying one under each arm. He dropped them 10 feet into the water.

"I made up my mind to get rid of them all, but I lost my nerve," Patterson said in the statement. So he got into the car and drove a short distance down the road. Stopping again, he left his 8-year-old twins, Gene and Glenn, under a tree in a field, left a blanket and departed.

Larry drowned, and his body was recovered yesterday. Raymond fell into water that came only to his armpits. He crawled to shore, then wandered around most of the night before Charles Fessler, an oil driller, picked him up. The twins were found late yesterday, still under the tree where their father had left them.

Mrs. Andrews Confident Of Victory in Farm Slaying

SALINAS, Cal., Sept. 30 (INS)—Mrs. Frances Andrews returned to her cell in the Monterey county jail full of confidence that she will win her fight to prove herself innocent of charges she murdered a 19-year-old farm boy.

As the trial recessed for the week-end, the 38-year-old society leader walked out of the courtroom holding her head high and with a smile of serene confidence on her face.

All day long she had listened to testimony concerning young Jay Lovett, whose body she found the night of July 15 on a roadside 250 yards from her ranch gate, shortly after she had retired for the night, she said.

There were times when she winced as testimony was given regarding the condition of the boy's body, the kind of clothes he wore, the defendant herself had bought the slacks he was wearing and the state of mind he might have been in as he left her house and started to walk home.

Mrs. Andrews is accused of shooting the good-looking young Lovett because she was jealous of his attentions to chic and vivacious Mrs. Nancy Linde, who also owns a ranch in leisure-loving Carmel valley, adjacent to the ranch where Jay Lovett's family lived and close to the Andrews ranch.

The state called Mrs. Linde to the stand to support this claim. Mrs. Linde testified Jay was at her home on the night of his death, having dinner with her. There was no one else at home. Jay had been asked by Mrs. Linde to do some electrical work for her and she invited him to have dinner.

"Did he have anything to drink?" Brazil asked her.

"Yes," she replied, "a highball after dinner—one and some wine with his dinner."

His state of mind was normal, she related under Brazil's questioning and he did not mention suicide at any time in her presence, the witness said.

Ball Unwilling To Aid Dewey

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sen. Joseph H. Ball, Minnesota Republican, was on record today as being unwilling to campaign for Thomas E. Dewey "at this time."

"I have read, or listened to, all of Gov. Dewey's speeches and statements to date," said Ball. "He has not convinced me that his own convictions on this (foreign policy) issue are so strong that he would fight for a foreign policy which will offer real hope of preventing World War III against the inevitable opposition to such a policy."

"That being the case, I would violate my own deepest convictions if I were at this time to try to campaign for Gov. Dewey."

Oppose De Gaulle's Move To Pay for Seized Mines

PARIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—A suggestion owners be compensated for a block of coal mines requisitioned by the De Gaulle regime met with opposition today.

The Communist newspaper Humanite declared the mine owners have "long since been reimbursed" a thousand times over. The Miners' Federation demanded outright expropriation of the properties and asserted the owners had co-operated with the Germans to the point of shooting down miners who went on strike in 1941.

Meanwhile arrests of alleged collaborationists continued. The total in the Paris area alone soared to 10,000.

The ministry of industrial production has examined 265 cases of alleged industrial collaboration and turned 164 over to the ministry of justice.

TOULOUSE, Sept. 29 (Delayed) (AP)—Southern France and its big city of Toulouse give visitors an impression of calmness and normality, but Frenchmen everywhere express the conviction the provisional government in Paris should speed the purge and punishment of collaborationists.

That was the reaction obtained also in Pau, Tarbes, Bayonne and other towns visited with a group of Allied correspondents.

Frenchmen feel the purge of collaborationists is not going fast enough. They expressed the fear action against Frenchmen who aided the Germans may drift. The French feel the cleanup of collaborationists has been halted at the request of the Allies and they don't like it.

Killed seven Germans with grenades and Tommy guns, wounded a number, captured 17, broken up an armored counter-attack by knocking a Mark VI tank out with a Bazooka, demolished an enemy field piece, and helped two of his seriously wounded men to safety.

The citation said this was both "extraordinary heroism" and a "demonstration of magnificent valor and aggressive determination."

Quantity of Marihuana Found Growing in Hub

By JAMES J. DELANEY

A reefer's Garden of Eden has been found in Dorchester. Or rather several reefer's Paradises, where thousands of dollars' worth of marihuana weed grows in profusion in close proximity to the place where federal narcotic authorities unscathed spots supplying a large local market.

IRVING W. LILLIE AND REPORTER JIM DELANEY
Marihuana Weed Discovered Growing in Dorchester

The Boston Evening American reporter was conducted to the various places today by Irving W. Lillie, of 40 Eleanor St., Chelsea, who has observed the hemp plant growing.

Lillie, who told the reporter he was interested in marihuana only from a scientific and academic standpoint, having made its study one of his hobbies, says he could not be mistaken in the weed. "It is easily distinguishable," he said, "by its seven-point leaf."

Boston police narcotic authorities were notified and started straightway for the scene.

Federal authorities were notified by the Boston police.

Worth $175 a pound, the weed is growing in abundance behind the Boston Sand & Gravel Co. plant in Willow St. and on Boston St., Dorchester, in fields and lawns.

Red marihuana, a rare species, is found on Boston St., near Washington St.

Prof. Roger Adams, formerly head of the Harvard and Radcliffe chemistry departments, now head of the chemical department of the University of Illinois, is doing research on it to make it a boon instead of a curse.

It's the female plant that's dangerous, he says. The drug is a "sinister mind-perverting and physically deteriorating drug." It has been known as an intoxicant for 4000 years.

Strikes Tie Up Two Big N. E. Shipyards

(AP)—Labor troubles reduced production today at two New England shipyards.

Plant officials at the Bath Iron Works Corp. said between 4000 and 5000 men of a morning shift of 8800 workers were away from their jobs because of a disagreement on an incentive bonus plan.

About half the number, the personnel office said, walked out, and the yard was forced by the walk-out to release the others.

The Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Atlantic & Simpson yards here called only half of the normal Saturday crew of 6500 workers to their jobs, because the company said 200 leading men bosses of small groups refused to work.

The leading men had left after the War Labor Board ordered 30 of them to return to work without settlement of the dispute over wages. Spokesmen for the men said they were willing to work, but claimed they should be paid higher wages for supervisory jobs. Their classification was not covered by a CIO Marine and Shipbuilding Workers' Union contract with the company.

The Maine walkout came on the heels of a three-day work stoppage which ended yesterday. The men quit after hearing the company's answers to questions they asked about the plan.

The company had announced that the men would not be paid for the time lost through the three-day walkout, that the bonus payment would be made Nov. 29, but that the management was "not in a position at this time" to announce the total payments proposed.

Sen. Nye Asks Bribe Bid Probe

BISMARCK, N. D., Sept. 20 (AP) Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R-I, of North Dakota suggested today in a telegram to Sen. Green, chairman of the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures, that a federal grand jury or the committee investigate the reported offer of money to a war veteran to be a candidate against Nye in the June primaries.

He urged that a grand jury determine the question of bribery in testimony concerning the "Tea-Walt incident" in which Fay C. DeWitt of Minn., a World War veteran, said in a sworn affidavit he was offered, but refused, $10,000 to oppose Nye.

British planes met them head-on, destroyed 33 and damaged 16, and kept them from getting into striding range of British ground forces at any time. Only one British plane was lost.

Gen. Hodges' doughboys were punching into German defenses again all the way from north of Aachen to the southern tip of Luxembourg.

They gained a mile northeast of Sittard on the Dutch-German frontier 20 miles north of Aachen and drove anew against Hurtgen, 14 miles southeast of the besieged fortress town.

The Seventh Army was running into heavy fire of German artillery concentrations, however, pushing Allied lines for thin spots in every indication of a fierce fighting stand in the Vosges.

LT. Patch's troops captured St. Gorkon, a mile south of the road network town of Rambergvillers, in a two-mile advance and were pushing east on a five-mile front.

They slugged forward through desperate German resistance at the entrance of the narrow Vosges foothills past of Bouvillers, 14 miles northeast of Epinal.

Your Name Wanted By Buddies' Santa

Santa Claus already has his autograph book out for YOU to sign.

But the gentleman with the white beard is wearing GI khaki instead of his picturesque red coat this year.

Your signature is needed in his book via one of the Boston American, Record or Sunday Advertiser coupons in the Christmas Gifts to Buddies Overseas Campaign for that way Santa both gives and takes.

He takes your gifts to the servicemen fighting overseas by giving you their names when you send in the coupon requesting them.

And, because Santa is literally up to his ears this year, you'll have to make it soon, very soon. For overseas mailing ends Oct. 15, just 12 mailing days from now, and in that time Santa's sack has got to be filled to overflowing so that no single buddy on any of the far-flung fighting fronts will feel neglected when his comrades-in-arms receive their packages.

Ever know what it is to be lonesome, blue, sunk on a day like Christmas because nobody has remembered you?

If you have, you certainly won't want any soldier, sailor, Marine or Coast Guardsman to feel that way because you forgot.

So send in the coupon—NOW. Names will be mailed you—fast. You prepare your packages and take them to the post-office, and old Santa Claus Uncle Sam does the rest with transportation magic more wonderful than any team of reindeers.

And remember, although you're sending packages, of course, to all your own menfolk or womenfolk in the service—you can always spare another for someone whom you don't know, and who perhaps doesn't know anybody.

But the important thing is, do it NOW. Send at once for an overseas boy's name.

Austen Lake's absorbing series of articles from the Road to Berlin will be resumed in Monday's Boston Evening American. Don't fail to read the next colorful narrative about New England boys engaged in battles.

Probers Demand Mrs. Browder File

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American, Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—The House un-American activities committee, investigating subversive aspects of the Political Action Committee, officially requested the Department of Justice to forward the "secret" file on the deportation case of Mrs. Raissa (Irene) Berkman Browder, Russian-born wife of Earl Browder, Communist leader.

A President-appointed Appeals Board recently acted to legalize the American residence of Mrs. Browder by granting her a visa to re-enter the United States from Canada.

This action overrode the objections of two other visa committees, the State, Navy and War Departments and the Immigration Bureau. Mrs. Browder was ordered deported after admitting she had illegally entered the United States, but the order later was rescinded.

Documentary evidence in Congressional committee files reveals that Mrs. Browder, an agent of the OGPU (Russian secret police) in Moscow, engaged actively in the work of the Communist party here despite her denial before an immigration board that she had any Red sympathies or affiliations.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, (R.) of New Jersey, member of the committee investigating the Political Action Committee, declared the immigration records on Mrs. Browder might shed light on the "coddling of Communists" by Federal agencies as well as the Communist-Political Action Committee link with bureaucracy.

Thomas directed Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator, to request the unreviewed immigration reports on Mrs. Browder from Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle.

Another communication addressed to Biddle at the direction of Rep. John M. Costello, (D.) of California, member of the committee, called for an explanation as to why four Communists cited by Congress for contempt in 1940 had not yet been prosecuted.

Dog Collars Return As Style Highlight

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

YOU MAY NOT be a Floradora type in the tradition of Lillian Russell and the Victorian beauties who turned grandpa's head... but you'll be the next thing to it... judging from the fashion accessories ballyhooped in the smartest places and by the smartest-looking gals.

Wherever you go... and with whomever you talk in the fashion world... the stressed phrase is the Lovely Lady Look. And, if you haven't got it... you must acquire it... change your personality, if necessary... but come up with a sweeping femininity of the ta-ra-ra-boom-te-ay days. It's going to be mighty hard on us tailored sophisticates.

Turning back the pages of the portrait album... leading fashion jewelry designers have come up with a trend designed to make you a frankly feminine beauty... like the Merry Widow who had them all ago. This season... hush elegance is expressed in soft fabrics, sentimental colors... and, above all, in jewelry to make you prettier.

Inspired by the fabulous dog collars of the Gay Nineties... are circlets that combine the everlasting flattery of pearl with the slightly wicked coquetry of black velvet... a Coro brain-child. Styled to fit the throat closely... all the circlets are of simulated pearls and varied in treatment.

"LITTLE PRINCESS" EFFECT, TOO

You can have as many strands hugging your swan-like sculpture as you prefer... single, double or triple... but they must be tied with a bow. Or they can be sculptured bowknots on a narrow ribbon that can be centered or work asymmetrically. Then there is the filigree openwork designs of matched pearls... each small circlet threaded through with velvet... and interesting face effects... all designed to create a picture that is proudly feminine.

Younger girls can achieve the "little princess" effect by combining jewel-toned velvet with faceted stone-centered circlets. And to dramatize and discipline your coiffure... Coro features matching combs studded with large pearls... or looped over with pearls of varying sizes... to gleam against your hair at every angle. And don't forget the velvet-bowed circlets for your wrists. These are definitely feminine follies.

Mary Jane Allen Plans Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN

AN INTERESTING ALLIANCE, via the matrimonial route, of the navies of Uncle Sam and John Bull will take place in Boston next Saturday when post debutante Mary Jane (Jackie) Allen of Waban becomes the bride of Paul Fitzroy Breakell of Capetown, South Africa.

The bride-to-be is in the WAVES and her fiancé is a sub-lieutenant in the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve. He is the son of Mrs. Paul F. Breakell of England who has made her home in South Africa since the war. He is a graduate of St. Andrew's and was about to enter Cambridge University when called to active duty and has since seen service in the Mediterranean and North Atlantic.

Rev. Russell H. Stafford will officiate at the couple's wedding in the Gordon Chapel of the Old South Church and a small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. W. Lloyd Allen of Waban. Further details will be decided after Jackie arrives tonight to spend the week-end with her family. She is stationed at Floyd Bennett Field.

Mary Jane Allen

She graduated from Tenacre and Beaver Country Day, made her debut at a tea dance at the Algonquin Club at a Christmas party in '38. She joined the WAVES in December '42 and has specialized in aviation mechanics.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Friday—Yesterday I called upon Madame Chiang Kai-shek, who is back in this country and I am sorry to say, far from well. It is sad to see someone who has been through so many years of anxiety and is now suffering from the results. I hope that our climate will be beneficial to her.

She tells me that in Brazil everyone was more than kind, but she did not seem to progress. Now she is back near the doctors who helped her before, and she hopes for rapid improvement.

MRS. ROSE L. BROWN, national chairman of press and publicity for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has an editorial in the last issue of the Missouri Clubwoman which I think deserves the consideration of every woman.

After every war in the past, monuments have been erected as memorials to the men who have died. Sometimes these memorials are beautiful, and we are glad to have them as a reminder of the service which our men have rendered in the past.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs suggests, however, that national parkways be built as memorial highways. In this way, communities would have a perpetually useful memorial which the living can use and enjoy, thereby really keeping alive the memory of the men who sacrificed that the rest of us could have a better world in which to live.

LAST NIGHT I enjoyed attending the radio performance of the sailor's play which won third prize in John Gilder's competition. There were a number of sailors and soldiers in the audience at Radio City, and they seemed to enjoy the half-hour of entertainment.

Tempting Tomato Recipes

A DASH OF RED is a sure-fire pickup for your black suit. IF YOU HAVEN'T made good use of fresh tomatoes this season, it is high time you did so. They add pleasing refreshment to a meal, providing they are well chilled, of course, and at the same time offer a substantial amount of vitamin C. Tomatoes very helpfully aid in maintaining your daily vitamin C quota.

Don't be fussy about peeling tomatoes as vitamin C is best preserved if the fruit remains unpeeled, and that's a time saver, too.

Sliced tomatoes served with a modified Russian dressing always bring compliments. Extend mayonnaise with catsup and add a generous amount of chopped ripe olives—the combination is a wonder and gives zest to the bright red fruit. Ripe olives, chewy and rich in natural fruit oil, give pleasing substance or body.

Try some of these ways of serving tomatoes, too. You will want to do so often.

STEWED TOMATOES

4 cups fresh, peeled, quartered tomatoes 2 tsp. salt
1½ tsp. minced onion
1 to 1½ tsp. sugar

2 tsp. flour ¼ tsp. pepper
2 tsp. butter or margarine
Combine all ingredients, first mixing the sugar with the flour. Simmer 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings. If preferred, the flour may be omitted and 1 cup soft bread cubes added to the tomatoes. If desired, 2 cups of cooked, diced celery may be added.

BACONIZED TOMATO HALVES

4 large, firm, ripe tomatoes
Flour ½ tsp. salt
2 strips bacon
Wash and stem tomatoes. Cut in halves, crosswise. Dust lightly with flour and sprinkle each with ½ tsp. salt. Dice bacon strips into ¼ inch pieces. Arrange on tomato halves. Broil 10 minutes.

FRIED TOMATOES IN CREAM GRAY

6 large, ripe tomatoes, washed and stemmed ½ tsp. pepper

4 tsp. flour 1½ tsp. salt
4 tsp. butter or margarine
1½ cups milk 1½ tsp. sugar
½ tsp. bottled, thick condensed meat sauce

1½ tsp. prepared mustard
Cut tomatoes in halves crosswise. Sprinkle with 1 tsp. of the flour, ¼ tsp. of the salt, and the pepper combined. Saute in the butter until golden brown and tender on both sides. Arrange all but 2 slices on a hot platter. Then stir the remaining 3 tsp. flour into the butter and tomatoes left in skillet. Stir in remaining ½ tsp. of salt and all remaining ingredients; cook until creamy. Pour over tomatoes. Makes 6 servings.

TOMATO CAKES

8 medium-sized tomatoes
4 eggs, well beaten
3 tsp. butter or margarine, melted ½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
¼ cup cracker crumbs

Blanch, skin and cook tomatoes; cool. Combine remaining ingredients and add tomatoes, mixing well. Drop by spoonfuls on hot greased griddle; brown on both sides. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

CUP-BAKED TOMATOES

6 medium-sized tomatoes
Salt and paprika
¼ tsp. mustard
1 cup medium white sauce
2 tsp. butter or margarine
¼ cup prepared horseradish
1 tsp. prepared sugar

Wash tomatoes, remove stem ends and place in greased individual custard cups. Cut a cross in the center top, sprinkle with salt and paprika, and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) for 20 minutes. Season white sauce with remaining ingredients and serve over tomatoes in cups. Makes 6 servings.

A TRUE LEADER

IF THE topsy-turvy era in which we live does not go down in history as the age of hutchery it will probably be doubly remembered as the epoch of unbridled arrogance.

Throughout the materialistic-minded world of today haughtiness and superciliousness are looked upon as admirable achievements and raised almost to the level of virtues.

It is refreshing and inspiring therefore to read the statement which Archbishop Richard J. Cushing made when he learned that he had been selected to succeed the late William Cardinal O'Connell as head of the Archdiocese of Boston.

"It is with feelings of profound humility and reverential gratitude that I received the news that His Holiness Pope Pius XII has designated me to be the successor of our late beloved Cardinal Archbishop as spiritual leader of the priests, religious and laity of the Archdiocese of Boston," Archbishop Cushing said.

"My first act is to ask all to join with me in fervent prayer to Almighty God. May He inspire and strengthen me. May He grant me light to know His will, guidance to do His work, grace to spread His holy messages of faith and love and salvation everywhere, at home and throughout the sorely tried mission fields . . .

"Trusting in God and desiring only His will, I answer the call of the Vicar of Christ on Earth. May God and His Blessed Mother be with us in all our ways, in His Will and under her protection we will pray and work."

Archbishop Cushing will preach many great sermons and accomplish many great things in the service of his Church and God.

But nothing, we truly believe, can ever surpass the powerfully appealing example of Christlike humility he has already given the so-called world.

WISE DECISION

SPRINGFIELD has ceased to plan for a V-Easter Day celebration on V-Day.

The opposition of service men's families and other realistic residents, who understand that the only V-Day for America will be the unconditional surrender of Japan, has caused Springfield officials to forego the celebration.

Other Massachusetts cities and towns could profitably follow the good example of Springfield.

What is there to prompt widespread rejoicing as long as we are deeply conscious of the grim fact that thousands of our sons and loved ones are destined to bleed and die on the seas and islands of the Pacific?

Far better than boisterous mirth on the occasion improperly labeled V-Day will be solemn prayers for the safety of our boys soon to go into battles yet to be won.

EXCELLENT PLAN

AIRCRAFT landing areas as memorials to the heroes of this war, rather than bronze or marble monuments that are frequently not even decorative.

This is the good suggestion of Col. Earle Johnson, Civil Air Patrol commander.

Boston, geographically equipped to be the foremost aviation center in North America, could profitably adopt Colonel Johnson's plan.

A flying field throbbing with life and activity is a more appropriate tribute to the heroic lads who are fighting and winning this war than a useless chunk of granite in a cemetery.

To me, fair friend, you never can be old,
For as you were when first
your eyes I eyed,
Such seems your beauty still.
—SHAKESPEARE.

THE ABOVE, of course, was prompted by deep love. However, a woman can actually be beautiful at the age of 60 not only to her loving husband but to the public as well. In fact, one of the most beautiful actresses on the stage today is over 60. She looks to be about 37. . . "If you are in our neighborhood drop in and I shall make you a fine dish of delicious spaghetti," writes a kindly Chicagoan. I suggest subscribers extending invitations like this give the matter careful thought. You know, I might take you up on it. I'll bet the aforementioned Chicagoan would be surprised if when her child went to answer the doorbell the youngster announced: "Ma'am, there's a man here who says you promised to make him a delicious dish of spaghetti."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q: How did you happen to get the name of Edgar? A: My sister suggested this name. The family was sitting around trying to think of a name for me when she spoke up and said: "Let's name it Edgar." Was bad enough to have her refer to a cute little fellow like me as "it" without also saddling me with a name like Edgar. However, I have forgiven her. She was only five years old at the time. Q: How did you meet your wife? What was the initial attraction? A: The customers seem to be really dying into my personal history today. My future bride being a smart looking and a smart dresser, I asked a friend to introduce me to her. He did. After I had let her asked her: "What do you think of him?" She said "He's too fresh. Much too fresh."

BING'S FAVORITE:

Bing Crosby's favorite of all the ditties he has sung is "Ponies From Heaven." In London recently, Bing was dining in a restaurant in Soho. A crowd gathered outside and started chanting: "We want Bing to sing! We want Bing to sing!" So Bing went to a window in the restaurant building and stuck his head out and sang "Ponies From Heaven." The crowd went wild with joy.

Bing Crosby

ASIDES: So far I have never been a collector of anything. However, I may shortly take up the collection of sporting prints and old sporting magazines. . . Who remembers the baseball game toy invented by the old-time ballplayer, Chief Zimmer? I had this when a kid. Was a wonderful game, and the adults had as much fun with it as I did. Soldiers would really enjoy this game. Too bad it is no longer manufactured. . . Get it right, Dorothy Parker did not say: "Men never make passes at girls who wear glasses." Being a stickler for accuracy, Dorothy said: "Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses."

SIDE LIGHTS: Sportscaster says Arthur Redfern was the favorite jockey of the highly successful plunger, George "Pittsburgh Phil" Smith. That's not right. Pittsburgh Phil's favorite was Willie Shaw, the riding genius from What Cheer, Ill. . . The barber shop of the old Palmer House in Chicago had a floor inlaid with silver dollars. They were Mexican silver dollars.

DIETITIANS: A rat is an expert dietitian. Experiments show when a rat is deprived of salt he will drink a lot of salt water. When an experiment on his body deprives a rat of sodium he will eat a lot of anything containing calcium. In one experiment, some rats were given the choice of 20 different solutions to choose a meal from. The rats selected a perfectly balanced diet in accordance with the most up to date nutritional knowledge.

SAYS SHE: "Speaking of the deal girls get in the change of names by marriage, you stated it wasn't right that a young woman took a new name like Stevens be entitled with one like Dillbeck or Muckenfuss," writes a feminine subscriber. "Before marriage I was called Miss Carter. Now I am related to me Mrs. Muckenfuss. What do you think of the deal I got? Still it really isn't so bad when you love the guy."

FIRST TRIP: On arriving at Le Havre, our lines found the steamship Paris still lying on its side at the wharf where it sank in 1933. The Paris was one of my favorite transatlantic liners. My wife and I made our first trip to France in this beautiful boat. The first transatlantic trip is listed by most people as one of the thrills of a lifetime. How about it?

"This is gonna hurt me more than you, but here goes!"

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

Distributed by King Features Synd. Reproduction prohibited.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—James J. Walker, who used to be Mayor of New York—this, of course, was before they passed an ordinance making it illegal for the city to have any Mayor or other public official who is still his old snappy self.

Much damning has gone over the water since I saw him last, but I pegged him right away because he was the best-dressed guy in the joint. He was also as thoughtful and considerate as ever. He didn't ask me who was going to be elected President.

I ran into him at the Banquets Luncheon in New York for Secretary of Labor Perkins' favorite columnist, Westbrook Pegler. Mr. Pegler was present too, but it is considered good form to ignore the guest of honor, so we shall ignore him.

Jimmy Walker, by a strange touch of fate, was seated near former Postmaster General Jam. A. Farley. The touch of fate in this instance belonged to a character named Caswell Adams, who seated them there.

I do not know what they talked about, because I scorn eavesdropping—and beside, there was too much noise. Also, every time I tried to horn in, Mr. Farley insisted on introducing me to the guest of honor and there is nothing in my contract which says I have to meet Mr. Pegler more than once a day.

THEY may have reminisced fondly of the days when they were bosom pals of a gentleman currently striving to remove his knees on the White House—but, somehow, I doubt it. I would not wish this to be gossiped around too much, but they have had differences with F. D. R.

In fact, Mr. Farley has a wife who announced publicly that she was going to vote for Thomas E. Dewey, and, so far as I know, Mr. Farley has not even flogged her. This shows you how far things have gone.

Mr. Farley, as you know, broke with the President over the third term. He is just as much against a fourth term as he was a third, although you might think he'd be used to it by this time. However, he has remained a Democrat, albeit a silent one.

JIMMY WALKER ceased worshipping the squatter of 1600 Pennsylvania ave. because F. D. R. was responsible for Jimmy's abrupt departure from the Mayoralty. Mr. Roosevelt, who was Governor at the time, brought Jimmy to trial for unfitness.

Jimmy always insisted thereafter that he was jolted and you can get thousands to argue one way or the other. I do not feel compelled to discuss it because it was only a lay at the time, looking very fetching in an Etan collar into which I slipped my head.

Anyway, Jimmy Walker got up at the luncheon and made what might have been the shortest political speech on record, if Mrs. Luce isn't broken him to a halt. "Good Evening with Sydney." Pointing to the former Postmaster General, Jimmy Walker said: "Like Jim Farley I am still a Democrat. And I am just as still."

IT SEEMS that 2125 travel very fast in New York. At the Pegler luncheon, Joe E. Lewis cracked:

"I don't have to do this for a living any more. I have the online concession at Tommy Dorsey's."

Mr. Lewis bowed off, just as Henry Youngman was ushered in. Mr. Youngman's opening remark was:

"I don't have to do this for a living any more. I have the online concession at Tommy Dorsey's."

Mr. Youngman got a terrific laugh—but not the kind he obviously expected.

GUEST OF HONOR PEGLER really got the biggest laugh of the day. Being a writer, instead of a talker, he was extremely nervous. His words got blurred. But, when he was exhorted to speak louder, he said: "It's no good anyway."

A BAFFLING mystery has arisen. Rep. Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, received a letter the other day, but it was addressed care of Clara Bonthe Luce.

The letter was unsigned. Furthermore, all it contained were pasted up pictures of me!

Knutson forwarded it to Mrs. Luce with this notation:

"Dear Clara: In view of the fact that the enclosure was sent to me in your care, I feel it should go through the regular routine. What has Byron been doing now?"

Mrs. Luce's office replied as follows: "Heaven knows!"

So you can see why I'm baffled.

MRS. DESPINA POWELL was badly nonplussed at a cocktail party the other evening when a swarthy gentleman in native Indian costume came up to her. Without introduction or preamble, he said:

"Good Evening! I don't smoke and I don't drink and I think India should be free!"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—Spencer Tracy's back from Honolulu, where he spent three and a half weeks visiting our men in hospitals. "Entertain!" scoffs Spence. "What can I do? I can't even whistle!" But he "chinned" with the boys, and sometimes news from home is a better cure than medicine.

Tracy's arrival is the cue to get "Without Love" rolling and I was particularly interested in learning that Lucille Ball gets the second femme lead with Katharine Hepburn in this opus. It's Lucille's first real dramatic opportunity, for she plays the secretary.

BING CROSBY has not given up the idea of producing "Mother Cabrini." Frank Mastrolli said today Bing Crosby Productions plan to spend $2,000,000 on the picture and that while he didn't want to say anything until Bing comes home, he and James Grant have had the encouragement of the leading Catholic dignitaries in the country. "I hope to make an amicable settlement with PRC," said Mastrolli, "but unless Bing votes against the picture we are going ahead with it." Dozens of letters from people who knew Mother Cabrini have come to my desk the last few weeks.

ONE THING about Deanna Durbin, she isn't afraid to take a chance on new directors. Most stars of her calibre (and she's the queen bee of "U"), insist on experienced megaphones. But most of Deanna's recent flickers have been the initial attempts of several new young megaphones. The latest is Charles David, a Frenchman, formerly associated with Alexander Korda in London, who will guide Deanna through "Lady on a Train."

DINAH SHORE and Cpl. George Montgomery stopped in to see me, and if ever I saw two people happy to be together again it is these two. They held hands all afternoon. George had been to see Dinah's family in Nashville and said her father can understand Russian, and so they talked in that language. Dinah said one night in France when she and Bing Crosby were entertaining the boys, Bing yelled out "The things you have! You have! You have!" and who was sitting down in the front row but William Randolph Hearst, Junior. Bill joined them later and Dinah said he has really traveled to all the war fronts and the boys have been missed. Dinah brought George back a pistol, a gift from Gen. Patton.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Don't forget I told you the Myrna Loy-Capt. Gene Markey friendship is serious. Myrna has been commuting to Washington every week-end, and when she isn't there he is in New York; William Powell, Jr., who has been in an Eastern hospital three months with a blood fever, is out and back in Princeton to finish training; Ola Carroll, who is pretty enough to be in the movies, has been made manager of the Westmore Salon; Muriel Morris, who went so far as to take out a marriage license to marry Red Skelton, has been doing the town with Lt. Walter Kane. Speaking of marriage licenses, I asked Hazel Brooks when she intended to marry Gibson. She took time to get a license a month ago. She said when they both had time to get away from the studio.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Gen. Emmanuel Lombard (he's DeGaulle's right hand) and his bride will divorce . . . It was "billionaire" trouble in their social life that split Jess Barker and Susan Hayward, according to friends. They couldn't decide whether she was "Mrs. Barker" or he was "Mr. Hayward" . . . The city's cab drivers have been warned again by Mayor LaGuardia against allowing strangers to "double up" on hack rides. Too many cab holdups in recent months, although the police have given the crimes no publicity . . . Brenda Frazier recently came into another $2,000,000 under the terms of her trust fund . . . Tip to editors: Check with Elizabeth Arden. Intimates vow she's ready to trek to the altar with an aide . . . Josephine Baker escaped with mere bruises in a recent plane accident in the Mediterranean area.

LATEST BLONDE to be moved by Charlie Barnet's charms is Terry Scott, the showgirl . . . The Carlo Tresca murder case which was shelved last year for insufficient evidence, will be reopened soon . . . with new and startling evidence . . . Sheella Barrett, the mimic, says she will marry former American Airlines Pilot Jeff Gaines on Oct. 15 . . . There's a haughty dowager around town who has solved the problem of how to get a waiter's attention in these don't you-know-there's-a-war-on times? She carries a police whistle and toots it to summon them. Did it at Coq Rouge the other evening and Voisin the other day . . . Experts aver that even if the Copacabana loses the present court fight it can operate for seven more months on an injunction.

THE VERSAILLES would be happy to pay Lucienne Boyer $4000 a week for an engagement whenever she can appear here, but so far the management has been unable to learn from French sources whether she is alive or dead . . . Edgar Bergen has postponed his wedding date. He's that upset by changes in the production staff of his radio show . . . Paul Small and Dave Green have been suspended by the Friar's Club for staging a fight there . . . Lt. Col. Hal Roach is in Walter Reed Hospital.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—Gene Tierney will play the title role in "Cluny Brown" . . . Anne Baxter returned to town, started work in "Czarina," and also resumed voicing with John Hodiak . . . Phil Silvers, on the set of "Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe," told Betty Grable that his pictures have broken all records in the drive-in theaters . . . "I lead by three sedans and two convertibles."

LON McCALLISTER and Marcy McGuire are voicing . . . Irene Dunne, after completing "Together Again" and before starting in "Over Tenity-Or," will take a vacation, which will consist of playing before soldiers . . . Kitty Carlisle is now the favorite for the singing lead in Cole Porter's "Mississippi Belle."

CAROLE LANDIS, who just returned from the South Pacific, has left already for a tour of the Army camps . . . Tallulah Bankhead wants to do a West Coast tour in Noel Coward's "Private Lives," which she played in stock . . . Bill Edwards and Joan Caulfield are mooning around the set of "Miss Susie Slagle's" . . . "The Gibson Girl," which was once intended for Ginger Rogers, is now being rewritten for Laraine Day . . . After Paul Robeson finishes playing in "Othello," Metro would like him to appear opposite Lena Horne in an all-colored cast version of H. Rider Haggard's novel, "Khashuri, The Lull" . . . Michael O'Shea has bought himself a farm in Connecticut and is going there until Hunt Stromberg has a picture ready for him . . . Both Paramount and Metro are trying to get Lamelle Darrius to come here to make a picture . . . That Technicolor test of Evelyn Keyes wearing a sweater with bare midriff and a peek-a-boo Oriental panties which Rudy Mate shot for "A Thousand and One Nights," is really something, and got Miss Keyes the leading role in that picture. In fact, they are now calling this girl from Atlanta, "The Georgia Peach."

George Holland Boston After Dark

WENDY BARRIE IS BEING sought for the leading role in "Many Happy Returns," the new Clare Kummer comedy which Harry Bloomfield, the former Boston ticket broker, will bring to town next month . . .

Henry Hull has the male lead, and is co-directing . . . Another play scheduled for a Boston break-in next month is Dick Krakeur's "Sleep, My Pretty One" . . . Roy Hargraves is staging that one.

HARRY RICE, one-time boss of the Keith-Bostor, is shepherding the visiting 20th Century players who came to Boston for the premiere of "Wilson" . . . The agile dancer who accompanies Diosa Costello in some of her wildest convolutions at The Mayfair is none other than her husband, Pupi . . . When Diosa played The Mayfair last season, Pupi played on the same bill with a dancing act of his own.

A NEW YORK PRODUCER is telling a story which has lessened considerably the respect of the so-called "profession" for a Boston hotel-keeper . . . On a recent visit, the producer and some friends were enjoying a mild game of "dollar" dice at the hotel owned by the Bostonian . . . The innkeeper edged his way into the game, and the stakes began to rise . . . The producer finally found that the game had resolved itself into a two-handed gamble between himself and the hotel man . . . and shortly—quite shortly—the innkeeper was in debt to the Broadwayite to the tune of $6000.

THE PRODUCER then delivered an ultimatum, he said . . . "I told him I did not propose to shoot craps all night, but that I would play until he was even or until I was $12,000 ahead," the producer declared . . . And, according to his story, the agreement was reached . . . Luck was with the visitor continually, and in an hour or so, he had won $12,000 . . . The game broke up . . . But there was no check forthcoming from the Bostonian, and there was no check in the visitor's hotel box the next morning . . . When the producer was leaving town, he talked with the loser in the dice-game, and asked for an approximate date when he might expect a check for his winnings.

THE PRODUCER SAYS he was told that he not in a position to pay such a reckoning, but that the visitor would be welcome to "work it off," that is he could have credit at the hotel for the full amount . . . Balancing his occasional visits to Boston against such a sum, the producer answered with an emphatic "no" . . . Then he returned to the big city . . . Since that time, the wife of the Broadwayite has been clearing household furnishings, linens, china-ware and choice liquors to the owner of the hotel . . . The entire amount of the hotel man's losses to her husband in that brief dice-game has been amortized, save for a few hundred dollars . . . (There must be a lively side to Boston-after-dark which reporters of the current scene miss completely.)

SAMSON RAPHAELSON has finished the re-writing of his "The Perfect Marriage" and the new scenes which will be played in New Haven, Monday night, will represent the playwright's "final" script . . . Dave Wolper is standing by his "Men the Sea" as it finishes its Boston run and prepares, with high hopes, for the New York premiere next week.

STORIES ARE MAKING the rounds that "pieces" of "Men the Sea" could have been bought in Boston, while the play was trying out . . . These tales revive the gossip about "Oklahoma" and its Boston run (under the title of "Away Ye Go") . . . According to these reports, as much as 50 per cent of "Oklahoma" could have been bought when the play was breaking in at the Colonial Theater here . . . Such a sale would have represented the biggest bargain in the history of show business, but there were no takers, and one of those who rejected an alleged offer was the most prominent theatrical magnate of the day . . . The same man turned down a third of "Rose Marie" (which made about $4,000,000) in its Atlantic City tryout . . . The price of the third was $25,000 . . . Dorothy Dalton, the silent movie star, bought it and became wealthy.

The units which took part are the "All Star," "Blackhawks" and "General Patton" groups.

Conquering Pep Eyes Zurita Go

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—Having out a wide swath through his own division, climaxed by last night's successful title defense against Chalky Wright, featherweight champion Willie Pep aimed today at a scrap with Juan Zurita, Mexico's holder of the NBA lightweight laurels. There were no knockdowns.

The dancing, weaving, jabbing ex-sailor from Hartford, Ct., didn't give Wright a chance, outpointing him by a much wider margin than when he took his crown in November of 1942. Pep kept his left hand in Chalky's face for practically the entire 15 rounds.

The 22-year-old holder of the New York version of the feather crown picked up 50 per cent of the $86,740 gate paid by 15,433 fans, and Wright got 12 1/2. It was Wright's second defeat in 21 fights since losing his title, 20 of the 24 foes being knocked out by the 32-year-old Mexican-born Californian.

Pep's victory over Wright was his 79th in 80 starts, his only setback being at the hands of Sammy Angott, former lightweight champion.

Aerial Duel Seen In Michigan Tilt

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 30 (AP)—Michigan's passing combination of Halfback Bill Culligan and End Dick Rifenburg, accounting for three of the Wolverines' four touchdowns in two football victories, met a real aerial rival today in Bobby (Hunch) Hoernschmeyer, ace pitcher of Indiana's pass-minded Hoosiers.

The Wolverines, opening defense of the western conference championship, they shared last season with Purdue, were after their 10th victory in a 12-game series with Indiana that opened in 1900.

Both teams had a first rate running game to go with their passing attack. Michigan beat Hoernschmeyer and the Hoosiers, 23 to 6, here last year.

LIONS PLAY UNION

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (INS)—A light but tricky Columbia gridiron squad carried a burden into Baker Field today when it met Union College. Lou Little's 1944 outfit hoped to pick Columbia out of the doldrums into which it fell in 1943, when the Blue lost an entire eight-game schedule. The Littlemen were expected to come through, since Union had been beaten in three previous encounters.

Ed Gingrich and Dick Bennett, but was favored in spite of the loss of these two stars.

FIRST PERIOD

Dartmouth won the toss and chose to receive. Turner kicked off for Holy Cross. Peck received on the 26 and got out to the 34. A holding penalty set Dartmouth back to the 21. Morasky picked up 2 and Turner quick-kicked to the Dartmouth 28, Holt returning it to the 37.

Clayton kicked to the H. C. 35. Morasky picked up 9. The Indians held and Turner's quick-kick was blocked, Washburn recovering for Dartmouth on the Crusaders 34. Robinson was stopped twice and Clayton was thrown on the 41 trying to pass. Clayton kicked to the H. C. 22.

Morasky passed to Melrose Leo Troy on the Dartmouth 5. Youngling intercepted a Morasky pass on the 15 and ran 85 yards across the Crusader goal only to have the play nullified by a clipping penalty.

Fritts of H. C. made a great catch of Holt's pass on the 14. Dartmouth penalized five. Turner intercepted a Holt pass on the five and got out to the 13. Turner's kick was blocked by Pusilli and Dartmouth got the ball on the H. C. seven. Two rushes and a pass failed. Lewis essayed a field goal, but failed as half ended.
